Erratum to:
Chapter “The Academic Reading Format International Study (ARFIS): Investigating Students Around the World” in: S. Kurbanoglu et al. (Eds.): Information Literacy: Key to an Inclusive Society, CCIS, DOI: 10.1007/978-3-319-52162-6_21

The original chapter was published in Communications in Computer and Information Science 2016, 676, pp. 215–227.

After publication of the original paper [https://link.springer.com/chapter/10.1007/978-3-319-52162-6_21] it came to the authors’ attention that the Chinese translation of question 10: I prefer electronic textbooks over print textbooks, was inverted to read I prefer print textbooks over electronic textbooks. Therefore, Figure 3 and the related discussions on pages 220–221 and 227 were incorrect.

Fig. 3. I prefer electronic textbooks over print textbooks

Electronic textbooks. With more libraries investing in electronic textbooks, it is important to understand our students' attitudes towards using them. Overall, nearly 69% of the students disagreed with preferring e-textbooks. Figure 3 shows amalgamated results and country percentages for Question 10.
